2. Qualitative Information Concerning Consolidated Business Performance

As to the business environment during the first quarter under review, although demand was solid on the back of continued favorable economies in Asia and Japan, strong negative impulses came to bear on the cost side from surging crude oil and naphtha prices, combined with coal prices hovering at a high level. Amid these conditions, the Company's net sales posted strong gains on the year, but operating income and ordinary income fell, with net income just slightly higher than in the same period last year.

Net sales increased significantly, by ¥17.7 billion, or 13.3% year-on-year, to ¥151.6 billion, reflecting growth mainly from volume effects across all segments, except for the Energy and Environment segment. Operating income fell ¥300 million, or 6.0% year-on-year, to ¥6.1 billion, as cost increases from high prices of raw materials and fuel could not sufficiently be passed on through selling prices, outweighing gains from increased shipments. Ordinary income declined ¥600 million, or 10.2% year-on-year, to ¥5.5 billion owing to lower dividend receipts, in addition to the fall in operating income. Net income increased ¥100 million, or 4.6% year-on-year, to ¥3.2 billion, which reflects an improvement in net extraordinary items.

It should be noted that first-quarter results of the Company tend to come in below those of other quarters. This is due to effects of seasonal factors, such as scheduled plant maintenance concentrated in the first quarter at the Company's production plants for Chemicals and Plastics and for Specialty Chemicals and Products segments, as well as a bias in cement demand in favor of the second half of the year (cement is a key product of the Cement and Construction Materials segment of the Company), and a concentration in the end of the fiscal year with respect to the accounting recognition of machinery sales revenue.

Performance by segment is summarized below.

A. Chemicals and Plastics

Net sales increased ¥8.5 billion, or 21.1% year-on-year, to ¥49.0 billion. This was due to solid demand supporting favorable shipments of caprolactum and synthetic rubber, combined with an increase in the yen-converted value of sales of overseas subsidiaries due to a weaker yen. Operating income declined ¥1.0 billion, or 60.3% year-on-year, to ¥700 million. Responsible for the fall, which came despite a rise in earnings from volume effects, was a contraction in the spread between raw material costs and prices of caprolactam and polyamide resin products as well as higher energy costs, including for crude oil.

B. Specialty Chemicals and Products

Net sales increased ¥400 million, or 2.4% year-on-year, to ¥20.8 billion. Contributing factors were a continuing recovery trend in IT and digital-products markets since the summer of 2005, leading to growing shipments of specialty products such as polyimide film mainly for LCD and plasma display applications, and electrolytes and separators for lithium-ion rechargeable batteries. Operating income was up ¥800 million, or 51.2% year-on-year, to ¥2.4 billion thanks to volume effects from these specialty products.

C. Cement and Construction Materials

Net sales rose ¥3.3 billion, or 7.4%, to ¥49.3 billion. This was due to higher sales of ready-mix concrete at the cement and construction materials subsidiary, as well as increased sales of quicklime products. Operating income fell ¥600 million, or 32.7% year-on-year, to ¥1.4 billion. Responsible for the decline was rising energy costs, including for coal, which outweighed income-enhancing factors such as higher export prices for cement and increased use of waste.

D. Machinery and Metal Products

Net sales increased ¥5.5 billion, or 28.7%, to ¥25.0 billion. This was due to favorable shipments of machinery products, such as die casting machines for the automotive industry and vertical mills for the Chinese market. Operating income rose ¥200 million, or 37.6% year-on-year, to ¥900 million. This increase reflects income gains from higher machinery sales offsetting an income decline at the Company's aluminum wheel operations, which was caused by a strong Canadian dollar and a drop in domestic sales volumes.

E. Energy and Environment

Net sales slipped ¥200 million, or 3.5% year-on-year, to ¥6.4 billion, almost unchanged from a year earlier. Operating income rose ¥200 million, or 96.0% year-on-year, to ¥400 million. This gain was due to an increase in coal in storage.

F. Other

Net sales and operating income came to ¥1.0 billion and ¥100 million, respectively, on a par with the corresponding figures of a year earlier.

3. Consolidated Financial Position

Note: With respect to the figures for the first quarter of the fiscal year ended March 2006 and the fiscal year ended March 2006, previously stated stockholders' equity, stockholders' equity ratio, and stockholders' equity per share, respectively, are stated in the columns for net assets, equity ratio, and net assets per share.

4. Qualitative Information on Changes in Consolidated Financial Position

Total assets at the end of the period under review increased by ¥2.3 billion to ¥702.8 billion. Underlying factors included a ¥3.3 billion rise in current assets reflecting a year-on-year decline in trade notes and accounts receivables while inventories increased. Furthermore, fixed assets fell ¥900 million due to a decline in investments and other assets.

Total liabilities increased by ¥1.5 billion to ¥533.5 billion. Underlying factors included a ¥4.8 billion rise in trade notes and accounts payable while interest-bearing debt fell ¥4.2 billion.

Net assets were ¥169.2 billion, reflecting a ¥1.0 billion decline in unrealized gain on holdings of other marketable securities and a ¥1.9 billion increase in accumulated foreign currency transition adjustment.
